

MODERN SLAVERY STATEMENT – FOR SMALL BUSINESSES

Our business, ECTA is committed to combatting slavery and human trafficking in its business and supply chains, and we make this statement to assist with compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015. This statement relates to the financial year ending 2018.

As our business has a turnover of less than £36 million, we do not have a legal obligation to produce a modern slavery statement. However:

- a. We agree that exploitation within all supply chains ending in the UK is a blight on our society, and we are committed to playing our part in eliminating exploitation;
- b. We understand that customers with obligations under the Modern Slavery Act 2015 cannot comply with those duties without our cooperation.

To that end, we confirm that we have examined our own business and, to the extent that it is reasonably practicable, businesses within our supply chain and we confirm the following:

1. We confirm that within our own business, no relevant offence relating to slavery or human tracking has been committed.
2. We have made enquiries of businesses that supply directly to us and we are confident that no relevant offence is committed in that business.
3. Insofar as it was reasonably practicable, we have examined our supply chains and [confirm that we found no evidence of slavery or human trafficking] Further details about our business and supply chain are provided below.

Our business delivers training for private clients and government funded individuals.

Our business structure is:-

- 14 staff in 2 locations
- We are a private limited company
- Company structure is:- 2 directors to whom three managers report, and 9 employees report to those managers.

We operate in the following countries:

- England

Our supply chain is as follows:

Our supply chain is based on education model and consists of 2 awarding bodies which ECTA deliver certified training on behalf of. The agreement to deliver this training is based on inspection and formal agreement to which ECTA must adhere. The awarding bodies have no suppliers and work to educational standards as prescribed by central government, as the product is knowledge based and non-tangible. Both awarding bodies work in the UK.

We understand that certain industry sectors and geographical regions entail greater risk of exploitation than others. We do not believe that our supply chain is in one of those sectors Where it is reasonably practicable, we ensure that businesses in our supply chain have made a similar statement relating to slavery and human trafficking.

The person in our business responsible for assessing matters relating to slavery and human trafficking is: Spencer Harrison.

We also encourage all employees to report on any matters relating to slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains of which they become aware.
